Foreword

This is a snapshot of the results of my family history research. Organizationally it is based on my website at <https://281connections.us> as it exists at revision 36. As explained there, it starts with eight pairs of great grandparents for my wife and myself and works backward in time. There are seven volumes, which are listed below. The most up to date version of the material will always be the website.

Volumes:

- General Introduction
- South Dakota Roots: Bates/Moodie Ancestors ←This volume
- South Dakota Roots: Loy/Allen Ancestors
- South Dakota Roots: Rhombs/Kessler Ancestors
- South Dakota Roots: Thompson/Olsen Ancestors
- South Dakota Roots: Memorials and Mysteries
- Texas Roots: Kosub/Kokott, Long/Gill, Marsch/Fincke, Mihalski/Kosub

In many ways this is a record of one of the ways in which I have spent 9+ years of my retirement. I certainly owe thanks to many people, most of whom are mentioned in the volumes that follow. Any mistakes are mine, and I hope to be corrected.

Bates-Moodie Family

Agnes (Moodie) Bates, c.1939-1940

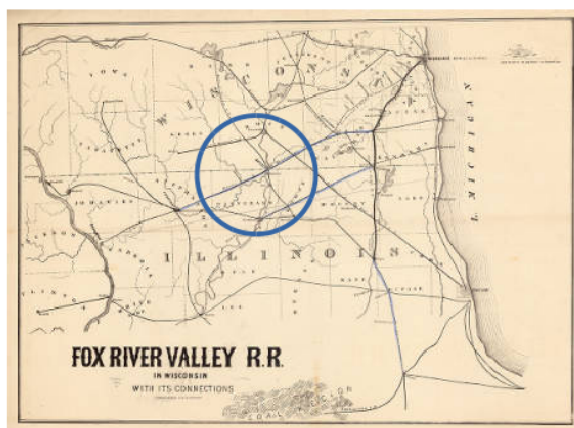

Charles Bates married Agnes Moodie in south central Wisconsin in 1886 under less than ideal circumstances. Agnes was about 15 years old and pregnant. Her brother, William, was quite unhappy about this and had Charles hauled into court shortly before Agnes and Charles were married. So, I guess that you could say that this was a shotgun wedding between a 15 year old girl and a 28 year old man.

Agnes had recently arrived from her home in Scotland with her sister, Elizabeth. Their brother, William, had moved to Wisconsin in advance of their travel. Charles had lived with his parents Jerome and Satina (Bates) Tupper in Elkhorn, WI. His birth name was Clarence Tupper. I believe that he changed his name as a consequence of the trouble that he was in with Agnes. (DNA evidence backs up this assertion.)

After establishing their family in southern Wisconsin, Charles died and Agnes and some of the family moved to South Dakota (after marrying Charles Randall). You can find family group information for Agnes and Charles here. Ahnentafel reports are here. A fan chart centered on one of their children is here. And you can find a traditional pedigree chart centered on one of their children here. A general document that includes some source description is here.

Researching this family and their ancestors has been a very wide-ranging experience. Bates/Tupper line ancestors were in northern Illinois and can be traced to NY and eastern PA. Scottish records show the Moodie ancestors in the Scottish Borders area in the 18th and 19th centuries. The maps that follow show roughly the areas of interest in the second half of the 19th century, before most of the Bates/Moodie family moved to South Dakota.

Based on a visit to southern Wisconsin in 2018, I have written a short report on aspects of the area that were important to the Bates-Moodie family, their ancestors and descendants. The report includes some pictures that you might find interesting. I have also created a document that describes what I have found about Agnes' father, James Moodie. It reveals that James was actually married twice. Agnes and Elizabeth are children of the second marriage (to Jemima Nicol). One of the grandchildren of James's first marriage (to Margaret Falconer) came to the USA (Idaho) about twenty years later than Agnes. I have also discovered, through DNA matching, descendants of this first marriage that now live in New Zealand.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Introduction

The purpose of this document is to be a repository of historical information pertaining to Charles J. Bates and his wife Agnes J. Moodie. I am doing this as a part of collecting genealogical information on all my ancestors. One of my grandfathers was Harry Bates, who is the son of Charles J. Bates and Agnes J. Moodie.

Complete current public family tree information for my family can be found at <https://rhombs.myheritage.com> .

Perhaps the most important aspect of the work presented here is the proposal that Charles J. Bates and Clarence J. Tupper are in fact the same person. In the “Life Together” section I explain how I arrived at this conclusion.

The short version of all of this is that I have been able to follow with some certainty, the lines of Agnes and Charles back to their origins in the British Isles. Agnes' line is pretty clearly and uniquely Scottish. Her ancestors in Scotland tended to cluster in the area around Hawick in the Borders area. Charles' ancestors are associated with groups that came from England in early American colonial times. They seem to have taken pretty standard routes from MA and CT to NY and then to WI and IL. The descendants that we are most aware of made it to SD and ND, where they met some pretty hard times. You probably know the rest.

I have found signals of the families most recently in the following places, where there may still be some contemporary relatives. Some of these locations may not have been expected.

- Brodhead, WI (relatives of Agnes)
- Beloit, WI (relatives of Agnes and Charles)
- Lemmon, SD (relatives of Agnes and Charles)
- Jamestown, WI (relatives of Charles)
- Rockton, IL (relatives of Charles)

I have not found any particularly uplifting stories, although they may certainly be there. In general our ancestors in these lines had assorted struggles for survival, made good and bad decisions, and died. If that is enough for you, read no further. If you have an interest in the history and ancestors of Agnes and Charles, plow on,

I am always interested in comments and corrections. There are many missing pieces of the story.

Updates:

12/26/2017

- Note that the Tupper linkage has been verified by matches arising from genetic testing at ancestry.com, familytreedna.com, and 23andme.com.
- I added more detail to the family of Jerome Tupper and Sittina bates in an effort to try to find Sittina's death record. I failed to find the death record, but I unearthed some interesting stories.
- In the Fall of 2017, I discovered a descendant of May Bates, living in WI. She has provided significant information, including that from a bible belonging to Agnes Moodie. From this information I was able to reconstruct some of the life of Libby Bates, and I was able to find a death record for Frank Bates.
- Other information via the Borders genealogical Society (Scotland) may provide more information about Agnes' ancestors, but I have not found the time to do the analysis.

Jan & Feb, 2016

- Updated/changed information about the ancestors of Agnes.
- Performed a general update of the rest of the document.

01/02/2015

- Over the holiday period I had some time to devote to the problem of the identity of Charles J. Bates. I found good evidence that his mother's maiden name was Bates. As a result, I am adopting the assumption that he changed his name to Charles J. Bates from Clarence J. Tupper around the time of his shotgun wedding to Agnes. There could be many reasons for this, the most obvious is that he may have had a falling out with his father, Jerome B. Tupper. If he was dis-owned by his father, that might have motivated him to adopt his mother's maiden name.
- By adopting this assumption it became possible to push much farther back in time along his paternal (Jerome B. Tupper) line and his maternal (Sittina Bates) line.

04/28/2014:

- Received information from the Rock County Genealogy Society regarding Charles J. Bates.
- One of their researchers found the death certificate for Charles. I have included a transcript of it here.
- The researchers agree that Clarence J. Tupper & Charles J. Bates are most likely the same person. This document has been updated to reflect this.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Charles J. Bates

Birth (January, 1858)

I am assuming the date of 1/6/1858 based on information from the time of his death. This is consistent with the assumption that he was born to Sittina/Settina/Satina/Satine Bates and Jerome B. Tupper.

All sources seem to agree that the location of his birth was Elkhorn, WI, in Walworth County. This is where the Tupper family lived.

Here is a transcription of his death record. There are assorted errors here, but I believe that his birth date is correct.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

The Immediate Family of Charles Bates

In order to better understand Charles' situation between birth and marriage to Agnes Moodie, I have accumulated a few bits of evidence about his family. Briefly, it seems to have been somewhat unstable because of his father's participation in the Civil War and his subsequent disability. His mother also does not seem to have survived past about 1881, when he would have been about 23 years old.

1850 Federal Census

Let's start with the family before Clarence/Charles is born. Here they are in Walworth Co., WI, in the house of Charles' grandfather. Latina is actually Settina. (I believe that there is a transcription error.) Jerome and Sittina's first daughter, Mary, has just been born. (The location of her birth is likely wrong since most other sources show Illinois.)

The 1860 census image for Elkhorn, WI, follows. This shows that Jerome was a mason by trade. It also shows that the first daughter was born in Illinois, which is consistent with the location of Sittina's relatives at the time. Jerome and Sittina's family are in Walworth Co. for this census.

Civil War

Jerome apparently enlisted in F Company of the 4th Wisconsin Volunteers in 1861 and participated in the Civil War on the Union side. From the disability record that follows, you can see that he was involved in the naval blockade of the South. He was at Ship Island, in the Gulf of Mexico, and he was discharged for a disability (rheumatism?). (It also appears in 1886, when his disability is noted (below), that he was a widower.)

It is not clear what Settina and the family did while Jerome was away from July, 1861, to April, 1862.

Interestingly, the record above mentions his daughter, Mary, but it neglects to mention his second wife, Rose Ward. He married Rose in 1894. More about this later.

1870 with Jerome and Sittina

It is not clear to me where the family was during the 1860s. Jerome was in the army for a while, but I do not know where the rest of the family resided. The Wisconsin 1865 census is not much help.

Information from the 1870 Federal census follows. Jerome has returned from the Civil War, and there is a new daughter (Ada), whose name shows up later in association with her father's residence in a soldiers' home in WI. At this time, they are living in Jamestown, in Grant County, WI. This is a fair distance to the west of Elkhorn, WI, where the family was located in 1860. In fact Grant Co. has the Mississippi River as a boundary. Dubuque, IA, is not far away. The path between Elkhorn and Jamestown covers a distance of about 120 miles and passes through Brodhead and the area where Agnes and her brother, William, lived.

Without further evidence, I think it safest to say that I have not found his location in 1880 with certainty.

The veterans record shown above for Jerome seems to indicate that Charles' mother, Sittina, may have died shortly before 1886. In fact, I have found Sittina, living with daughter Clara (Tupper) Cole, in Osage, IA, in 1880. Clinton Cole, Clara's husband was a barber there. So, I think it is reasonable to conclude that the family was split at this time, with Jerome in a veterans home in WI or in Grant Co., WI, and Sittina with her daughter in IA. Perhaps Sittina was in Osage because of an illness. Here's a transcript from the 1880 census in IA.

1894 Jerome's Marriage to Rose Ward

On 5/17/1894 Jerome marries Rose Ward! As you will see below, Rose appears to be the sister of Nellie' (Ellen's) husband. It is not clear why, but it appears that the Ward and Tupper families were mixed together. Note that the veterans disability paper noted above does not mention Rose. She does later claim veterans pension benefits on Jerome in the 1910s, after Jerome has died.

Here is a transcription of the death record for Jerome B. Tupper. It shows that his wife was Settina Bates Tupper. Note that Jerome's mother's name is shown as Polly Gurm. I suspect that this is wrong and that it should be Polly Gunn.

Charles' Siblings

In order of birth, his siblings are all female (Mary, Ellen (Nellie), Clara, and Ada). Their stories have their own interesting twists, in some cases intertwining with each other. Here is a list of he and his siblings and their families with some notes. Other notes can be found in my published family tree.

Tupper, Mary S. (b. 1850 - Illinois)

sp. Burns, Edward E. (b. 1858 - , d. 1914)

Burns, Frank L. (b. 1872-07-11 - Wisconsin, US, d. 1952-03-22)

Burns, Clifford (b. 1886-07-03 - Wisconsin, US)

This family was disrupted by the Spanish American War, as Edward was enlisted for this. Edward's life is much better documented than Mary's. She and Edward may have been separated after he returned from the war and went on into state politics.

Here is a reference regarding Edward Burns, Mary's husband. It is extracted from <http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~wigrant/bioindex.htm> . This shows an old text entitled A Commemorative Record of the Counties of Rock, Green, Iowa, and Lafayette Wisconsin (1901). I have copied the information below, which is associated with Edward E. Burns.

From the Biographical Record of the Counties of Rock, Green, Grant, Iowa and Lafayette, Wisconsin, publ. 1901- page 610-611

EDWARD E. BURNS, member of the State Senate from the 16th District, is one of the leading representatives of the Bar in Grant county, is a gentleman of unusual attainments, successful in the practice of his profession, and highly respected by his colleagues as well as his fellow citizens.

Mr. BURNS was born at East Dubuque, Ill., Jan. 20, 1858, a son of Edward and Clara (FAIRBANKS) BURNS, the former a native of Ottawa, Canada, the latter born near Watertown, N.Y. The father was born in 1828, of Scottish parents. The mother was born in 1832, and was the daughter of Silas and Caroline FAIRBANKS, descendants of prominent New England families, who were well known during the early days of the country. Edward BURNS settled in Chicago, and for some time was in the employ of the Illinois Central Railway Co., later conducting a lumber yard at East Dubuque, Ill., where his first marriage - with the mother of our subject - occurred. After some years' residence there Mr. BURNS removed to Jamestown, Wis., where he purchased the farm on which he still resides. In 1863, Mrs. Clara BURNS passed away, leaving him with two children: Edward E. is our subject; Carrie L., a native of Jamestown, where she grew to womanhood, married Frank NEAT, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and died in November 1891, leaving no family. For his second wife Edward BURNS married Miss Mary TUPPER, and to this union two sons were born : Frank L., a graduate of the State Normal school at Platteville, of the class of 1896; and Clifford, now fourteen years old.

Our subject received an academic education in the State Normal school at Platteville, after which he entered the University of Wisconsin law school, at Madison, graduating in the class of 1887. The following year he opened an office for the practice of his profession at Sioux Falls, S. Dak., but after a short residence there returned and formed a partnership with W. G. PALMER, of Boscobel, Grant county. At the close of one year Mr. BURNS removed to Platteville, forming a partnership with W. E. CARTER on Dec. 1, 1890. Five years later this partnership was dissolved, Mr. CARTER locating in Milwaukee, Wis., and Mr. BURNS continuing in Platteville.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

When the war with Spain broke out Mr. BURNS offered himself as a private, but was rejected on account of a defect in his left eye. Determined to serve his country, he returned to Platteville, and raised a company, of which he was elected captain, and which was mustered into the service as Company C, 4th Wisconsin Volunteers, at Camp Douglas, Wis. Later they were forwarded to Anniston, Ala., where they remained until Feb. 28, 1899, when the regiment was mustered out.

After the muster-out of the regiment Mr. BURNS returned to Platteville and the peaceful practice of law. He is notably successful in his cases. In recognition of his ability, the common council of Platteville in 1897 elected him to the position of city attorney, and he has since been honored with election to the State Senate from the 16th District, in which body he is now serving, discharging the arduous duties of this incumbency with marked distinction. In addition to this honor Mr. BURNS has also served as member of the county board, and brought to the deliberation of that body not only his legal knowledge, but also a calm, impartial judgment. In politics he is a member of the Republican party, whose principles he upholds upon all occasions. Mr. BURNS is not connected with any religious body, but accords to every man the right to worship as his conscience dictates. In April, 1899, Mr. BURNS purchased a fine building site on Roundtree avenue, erected a very comfortable home, and now resides there. Public-spirited, genial, thoroughly conversant with his profession, the future before this young man is a very brilliant one. Judging the future by the light of the past, his name is destined to become one of the best known in the State, even if he is not called to fill higher positions. Socially he is a very prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, and also of the K. of P. lodge of Platteville.

was a resident at their house in Osage, IA, in 1880 as mentioned earlier.

The Tupper “girls” in IA must have kept in touch with each other. In one case, the closeness was perhaps too much. Clara’s youngest daughter (Lillian) eventually married the husband of her Aunt Ada, who had also married and moved to IA!

Ada was the youngest daughter of Sittina and Jerome. She married Harry Williams in WI, and moved with him to IA. It appears that, after her niece marries her husband, she may move west (CA?). I’m sure that more stories about the families of the three Tupper daughters that moved to IA could be found.

The middle initial "C" conflicts with other information, and I assume this is an error. I also think that the father's name (Clarence Bates) is wrong or reflects the estrangement with his real father, Jerome B. Tupper.

Jemima and James in 1841

Here is a record of Jemima, Agnes' mother, in a house in the 1841 Scotland Census. The head of the house is shown as Elisabeth, but she seems too old to be Jemima's mother. Her father, James Nicol, is not present for some reason. Another James Nicol of approximately the right age shows up in the census in the right area, just not with the family. Maybe he has just moved out for some reason (like remarriage). Perhaps he has died. It is hard to tell what happened based on the available information.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

James Moodie was her father. Here is a record of the house of James' father in the 1841 census. James is not present, and this is not surprising since he would have been about 24 at this time.

It is possible that James had married a lady named Agnes Edgar in the southwest area of Scotland in about 1840. If this is indeed true, they had a child named Agnes about a year later (1841), and she may appear in the immigration information that follows later in the document. If this is not the case, I have completely lost track of James in 1841.

Here is the family, minus James in the 1881 census. I suspect that James died in 1878 based on information from another family tree, but there is no primary source information to support this. (reference = the “Brierley Family Tree 1947” on ancestry.com .)

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Emigration from Scotland (c. 1884)

Using castlegarden.org, I looked for people from Scotland between 1881 and 1887 with a name of Moodie or Moody and found the following list.

Last name 	First name	Age	Sex	Arrival Date	Place of last residence
MOODY	WILLIAM	17	M	6 Apr 1882
MOODY	AGNES	10	F	8 Aug 1882
MOODY	ELIZABETH	12	F	8 Aug 1882
MOODY	MRS. AGNES	42	F	8 Aug 1882
MOODY	SARAH	30	F	24 Nov 1885

So, I think that I found that Agnes' brother (William) came in April, 1882, followed four months later by his sisters and a possibly related person with the right name but maybe too young to be the mother. My first guess is that she is a daughter by an earlier marriage of James Moodie and Agnes Edgar (mentioned earlier). Perhaps, however, it is actually Agnes' mother Jemima and the first name is wrong. It is really hard to tell based on the information available. No matter who it was, I have not been able to track her in the US.

The ship (Furnessia) on which they traveled was part of the Anchor Line. It traveled between Glasgow and NY. The picture that follows shows the ship in 1891.

Following are details for the individuals shown in the list above.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

This definitely looks like her.

Death (1954 in Perkins Co., SD)

This information is from the South Dakota Death Index on ancestry.com. Note that after the death of Charles Bates, she remarried first to one Randall brother and then another. They probably met in Brodhead, WI, and moved to SD and so were close to her oldest son, Harry.

Prelude

Arrest Warrant (September, 1886, Janesville, WI)

Warrant for the arrest of Charles J. Bates. Image of the Janesville, WI, Daily Gazette for 9/7/1886 follows.
Source = myheritage.com.

Municipal Court.

The assault and battery case of the state against Curtis was on trial this morning. It was adjourned however, a eleven o'clock on account of the absence of a witness.

After that a jury was drawn in the case of the state against August Rhodes charged with breaking into the till at the Commercial house on circus day. A the amount 19 claimed to be over twenty dollars. August stands a fair chance of learning a trade at the state's expense. The action of the city against John McMahan, is to come up this afternoon This is another case growing out of the soap factory nuisance on South Main street.

Judge Patten has issued a warrant for the arrest of Charles J. Bates, of Monroe on a charge of being the parent of an illegitimate child. The complainant Agnes J. Moodie, a mere child, appears only about twelve years old, but who claims to be fourteen. She lives with her relatives in Spring Valley and came in this morning with her brother to see the officers.

[Note: If you look at the 1900 census data, it makes Agnes appear significantly older than is represented above. DOB = 1867 versus 1872. If you believe the Scottish census data, then her date of birth was 10/19/1871. In this case, she is about 15 at the time of the complaint, which is consistent with the text above. This means to me that her most likely date of birth is 10/19/1871.

Charles, however, was about 28 at the time of the complaint. Little wonder that her Brother was upset!]

Marriage (1887)

Agnes married a person named Tupper a few days after the arrest warrant mentioned above. My assumption is that this is an alias for Charles J. Bates. - "Wisconsin, Marriages, 1836-1930," index, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/pal:/MM9.1.1/XRRL-TTY> : accessed 11 Apr 2014), Clarence J. 1900 Fed Census (Rock County, WI)

Transcribed info from the myheritage.com website follows. I believe that the year of birth for Charles is wrong. It should be 1858. Other things that are going on at this time are (1) Charles is in the last stages of brain cancer and (2) Agnes may be pregnant with another daughter, to be named Grace, born in 1901.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Other info, not transcribed, includes the following.

- Charles was born in Wisconsin. DOB = January, 1862 [This conflicts with his death info above.]
- Charles' parents were born in New York. This conflicts with other information that indicates PA as the origin of his parents, but is consistent with the birthplace of Jerome Tupper. (Sittina Bates was born in PA.)
- Agnes was born in Scotland. DOB = October, 1867 [This conflicts with her Scottish census data, which I take to be more accurate.]
- Her Parents were both born in Scotland.
- As of 6/7/1900 (the date of the census), they had been married for 13 years.
- All children were born in Wisconsin on the dates that follow.
 - Harry – August, 1887
 - May – December, 1888 – note that the name is transcribed incorrectly above
 - Frank – May, 1890
 - John – May, 1892
 - Libby – March, 1895
 - Susie – April, 1898

Susie (b. 4/21/1898, d. 1/15/1975)

The following source shows Sue's birth and death dates. She was born in Wisconsin, and died in South Dakota.

She followed her family to South Dakota and lived with Agnes the entire time as far as I can tell. I don't believe that she ever married.

She apparently had a limp due to some undefined disease or deformity.

Mom has always referred to her as Aunt Sue.

This is the only picture of her that I am aware of.

Libby (b. 3/10/1895, d 4/4/1936)

Libby (Elizabeth/Libbie) was born to Agnes Moodie and Charles Bates in Green Co., Wisconsin, in 1895.

I believe that she moved with her mother sometime between 1905 and 1909 to South Dakota (Haynes, Perkins Co., SD), where she attended school. I have followed her up to 1915 in this vicinity. [Her father, Charles, died of a brain tumor in WI in 1900.]

My mother has said that she thought that Libby worked for a newspaper in ND, and now I can say that this indeed makes sense based on other things that I have found.

In 1919 Libby marries John L. Owens in Richland Co., MT. Tracing John's past reveals that he was born in La Porte City, IA, in 1875. His first wife was Bertha Sparrow, from MN. They appear to have had one son, named Cromwell Lewis, in Bowdle, SD, in about 1897. At some point Bertha disappears from the scene, however. I believe that this is due to the fact that she is committed to the SD state mental institution in Yankton. She appears there in the 1920 census. She is buried there as well (after death in Cook Co., IL, in 1925). [There is an inherited neurological disease involved since she, her son, and one of his offspring suffered from it (Huntingtons?).]

John took up newspaper editing and publishing in an assortment of small town/county papers, including ones in Bowdle, SD, McIntosh, SD, Hazen, ND, and elsewhere. I suspect that Libby met him as a part of the work that she must have done in a paper in the vicinity of Haynes, SD. (This would fit with my mother's recollection.) They appear in Sidney, MT, in the 1920 Federal census.

In the 1925 ND census, John appears in ND in two locations. Libby shares one of the locations (in Hazen, ND).

In 1930, John is still in ND and Libby is living not too far from her brother, Frank, in the city of Tacoma in Washington state. She is a Linotype operator. So, sometime between 1925 and 1930, Libby and John have divorced.

John dies in 1931 and is buried near Mandan, ND. The death certificate shows his marital status as "divorced."

Libby dies on 4/4/1936 of cancer in Tacoma. Her body was cremated there and her ashes were buried on 8/13/1936 in the Eastlawn Cemetery in Beloit, WI. Her remains are now in the same plot as those of her sister, May, and May's husband Olaf Lund.

All in all, this is a story with many twists and turns, some that have yet to be discovered.

Frank (b. 1890, d. 1966)

Frank work in and for the Navy in the Tacoma, WA, area. Here is a picture of Frank, while he was in the Navy.

He returned to live in SD with/near Sue and Agnes. He eventually died at a VA facility in Miles City, MT. There is no record of him ever having been married.

Harry (b. 1887, d. 1946)

Harry was my grandfather, but he died before I could get to know him. He had a reputation for not being kind to my mother. He lost his right arm early in life (in WI?) in a farming accident. He died of pneumonia in a hospital in Aberdeen, SD, and he was buried in the main cemetery in Gettysburg, SD.

He married Marian Loy in the vicinity of Lemmon, SD, where Agnes had moved the family after Charles' death. He worked as a mechanic in a small town in ND for a while, then moved the family to a homestead in SD between Hettinger, ND, and Lemmon, SD, and finally moved the family to Gettysburg, SD, where they operated a Texaco gas station and some rental cabins.

A record of his birth follows.

Here is a picture of Harry and his family. It was taken when they lived in Gettysburg, SD, which dates it to around 1940. Present in the picture are his wife Marian Loy (far left), their daughters Velma and Shirley, Harry in the right rear, and in the front is Dennis, the young son.

Harry was buried in the cemetery at Gettysburg, SD. The actual date of death is 11/14/1946.

After the Death of Charles

Here's what I believe happened after Charles died in 1900. This is all based on discussions with my mother (a daughter of Harry Bates) and some research done on the web.

Agnes and family stayed in WI for a while. They were there at least until Grace died in 1905. For at least part of the time they resided in Brodhead, which is where her sister lived and where she must have met the Randalls, who she later married.

John died in 1908, but I am not sure if this death happened in WI or not.

Harry was injured in an accident (farm?) that resulted in the loss of his right arm. This may have happened in WI or later in SD.

All of the family, except May, moved to the Lemmon, SD, area.

May married a man named Olaf C. Lund (of Norwegian heritage), and they moved to the Beloit, WI, area. (They had a daughter, named Edna May Lund.)

After moving to the Lemmon area, Libby moved to ND and worked for a newspaper.

Sue, who had a spinal deformity, stayed in her mother's house, and eventually died and was buried in the Lemmon area.

Frank served in the Navy, and was in the Seattle area for some time. He moved back to the Lemmon area at some point.

At some point, Harry met Marian Loy, whose family had moved from Mound City, SD, and had a farm north of Lemmon – in ND. They married in 1921. Harry lived/worked in Bowman, ND, and Haynes, ND.

Eventually, he tried farming on a Perkins County, SD, farm that was southeast of Hettinger, ND. This land was not high quality, and his family eventually moved to Gettysburg, SD. In Gettysburg, the family operated a Texaco service station and adjoining “camping cabins.”

Eventually, after moving to SD, Agnes married Charles (and then Alvin Randall (brothers)?). They lived at one point southwest of Lemmon. The Randall brothers were from WI, and it is possible that the marriage to Charles took place in WI.

Agnes survived the Randalls, and continued to live in Lemmon (or the area south of Lemmon) until her death.

Here is a photo that I believe includes Agnes. The photo was taken in about 1929, at which time, Agnes would have been about 58 years old. Harry is on the far right, holding his second daughter. His wife is on the far left. His sister, Sue, is the third person from the left. Is Agnes on Sue's right? (My mother is the girl in the front.)

Here again, the Randall and Bates groups are together (in the same residence) in Rural Perkins Co., SD. Agnes' husband is shown as Alvin C. Randall, rather than Charles. Based on his age, I am guessing that this is the same person.

Miscellaneous Information

Confusing Family Tree Data

There is another myheritage.com site that purports to relate Charles J. Bates to an ancestor in Webster, SD. I have sent a message to this person to clarify this, but I have not heard back.

This Charles J. shows up in the 1870 federal census in Painesville, Stearns County, MN.

"United States Census, 1870," index and images, FamilySearch (<https://familysearch.org/pal:/MM9.1.1/MD4G-P7N> : accessed 19 Apr 2014), Charles J Bates in household of Edward H Bates, Minnesota, United States; citing p. 3, family 24, NARA microfilm publication M593, FHL microfilm 000552215.

Upon further research, this person is the son of Edward H. Bates, who ended up in Webster, SD. Looks like his family thinks that he is actually referred to as John Charles Bates.

I believe that there is no relation here unless genetic testing proves otherwise.

Findagrave.com shows the following information about Sittina's father, Henry N. Bates.

Henry N. Bates

Learn about removing the ads from this memorial...

Birth: Jul. 5, 1803

Granville

Hampden County

Massachusetts, USA

Death: Mar. 6, 1851

Rockton

Winnebago County

Illinois, USA

Charles C. Bates in his book "The Bates Centennial Farm of Rockton, Illinois" suggests that Henry was the son of Samuel Bates by his second wife Elizabeth. He accompanied his parents to Oneida County, New York as a child, and later went to Damascus, Pennsylvania where he married on 16 April 1826 to Mary Lillie, and they were the parents of two sons and one daughter. Henry came to Rockton Township shortly before 1840. In 1842 he removed to Pecatonic (Macktown). He lived in a frame house east of the Stephen Mack home and had a shop in which he made boots and other leather goods.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Still Another Charles Bates - from Monroe, WI. (1880 Fed Census)

This family is interesting because of the last name and because the location fits with the location mentioned in the his arrest warrant. It would be interesting to determine if there is any relation between this family and that of Sittina's parents.

Charles J. Bates & Agnes J. Moodie

Key aspects of this include the following.

The father, William was 46 and drawing a pension – probably from being in the Civil War. His place of birth is listed as New Hampshire, which is indicated as the place of birth of his parents as well. Wife = Harriet, age 38, born in Ohio. Her father was born in Ohio, and her mother was born in Virginia. Son, Charles, was a farm hand. Other two children are at home. All born in WI.

The Life of James Moodie

Introduction

I am a great grandson of Agnes Moodie, about whom I have done some genealogical research. The purpose of the research has been to identify her Scottish ancestors. Recently I discovered a marriage record for her father, James Moodie. From this record I am attempting to build a coherent story of his life and thus the family into which Agnes was born. Here is the record.

20	1866	(Signed)	48	Denholm	Thomas Moodie	(Signed)	1866
	on the Seventh day of December at Hope Park Parish of Wilton.	James Moodie Millwright (Journeyman) (Widower)		Parish of Cavers	(deceased) and Elizabeth Moodie, M.S. Litster (deceased)	James McEwen Minister, East Bank, Hawick	December 7 th at Wilton
	After Banns, according to the Forms of the United Presbyterian Church	(Signed)	30	Little Cote	James Nichol previously Factor and Elizabeth Nichol M.S. Cavers	(Signed) William Little Witness Barbara Pott Nichol Witness	James Shiel Registrar

Here is a transcription of the record from the Registrar General of Scotland form. It describes the marriage of James to Jemima Nicol.

1866 Marriages of the Parish of Wilton in the County of Roxburgh
item 20, for 12/7/1866,
at Hope Point Parish of Wilton after Banns according to the Forms of the United Presbyterian Church

(Signed) James Moodie, Millwright (Journeyman) (Widower) age 48
resident of Denholm Parish of Cavers
father Thomas Moodie Millwright (Master) (deceased)
mother Elizabeth Moodie, M.S. Litster (deceased)
(Signed) Thomas McEwen Minister, East Bank, Hawick

(Signed) Jemima Nichol, Domestic Servant (Spinster) age 30
resident of Little Cote Parish of Cavers father James Nichol, previously Factor (meaning that he was a sort of property manager for someone) mother Elizabeth Nichol, M.S. Cavers
(Signed) William Little and Barbara Pott Nichol, witnesses

James Shiel, Registrar

It reveals that James was a journeyman millwright, similar to his father, Thomas, who was a master millwright. Both were employed in jobs associated with the industrial revolution in Scotland. His mother was Elizabeth Litster.

Following is a mostly sequential rendering of James' life and what events I have found that led up to the birth of Agnes, his last child. At the end of this story, there is a short dive into possible deeper Moodie origins. I don't claim that this work is definitive, more research may change how people are linked in the early 19th century.

The Life of James Moodie

Birth of James Moodie in 1817 at Lilliesleaf, Roxburghshire

James was born to Thomas Moodie (b.1790-10-26) and Elizabeth Litster/Lister (b.1793-10-03). The birth took place in Lilliesleaf, Roxburghshire. Thomas and Elizabeth had been married in the previous year near Edinburgh.

Some sources claim that Thomas died in 1824 in India. This is not crazy when you investigate his ancestors a little more. I have not gone far in this direction, but you can see some hints in the very last chapter (page 32) of this document.

The Life of James Moodie

He was likely the first child. Here is a family group report for his birth family, to the extent that I understand it.

I will also mention here that there may be another child that should be considered for this family. His name is William Moodie, born in 1828 (?). I am not, however, certain and so will leave this to be researched further. He appears in the 1841 census, which indicates that he was born in Roxburghshire. See the next and last sections.

The Life of James Moodie

1841 Scottish Census – Lilliesleaf, Roxburghshire

James' birth family may be shown in the image here from the 1841 census.

If this is indeed James' birth family, then his mother (Elizabeth) may have died and Thomas may have remarried. (I have never found a death record for Elizabeth (Litster) Moodie, his mother.)

If this is a new family for Thomas, probably the very young children are its product, and the older child is a vestige of the original birth family of James. Perhaps, then, William is James' younger brother. (This may become important later.)

Here is a record of Thomas Moodie marrying Agnes Burn(s) 8/5/1831. This lends credence to the theory that William may be from an earlier marriage of Thomas to Elizabeth Litster. It would also explain the other two Burn(s) people residing with the family. Here's the marriage record for Thomas and Agnes. Note the location (Lilliesleaf, Roxburghshire).

Whatever the case, James is not present with this family in 1841. He would be about 24 at this time, so that is not surprising. I have not been able to find him unequivocally at this time in the 1841 census elsewhere. The correct "take away" from the 1841 census is that there is a lack of clarity. I present the information here just to indicate the lack of clarity and the need for more research.

The Life of James Moodie

1851 Scottish Census – Edinburgh St. Cuthberts, Midlothian

Here is a record that shows a person that I believe is the correct James.

He is a boarder, working as an engineer in Edinburgh.

And, note that one of his fellow boarders is shown as George Falconar, a name that is quite similar to Falconer, the surname for his wife to be (Margaret). (See next section.)

Perhaps James met his wife to be through association with George Falconer, who presumably was somehow related to Margaret.

By the way, at this time there is a Margaret Falconer of approximately the right age, living in the same parish, to the NW of the address shown here.

The Life of James Moodie

Margaret Falconer b. 1823-4

Margaret was possibly born about 1823-4 in a place named East Calder, Midlothian. (Location based on 1861 census. Date based on this same census and the death record that follows.) There is such a place just to the west of Edinburgh. Her father's name was James. His mother's name was Janet. She may have had a relative named George B. Falconer.

By the way, the Falconer name is very common in Midlothian at this time, so sorting out who is who would be quite a job based on the on-line records that I have found.

A record of her death in 1862 follows. Denholm happens to be the location of the household of Thomas Moodie that we saw earlier in the 1841 Scottish Census.

862. DEATHS in the parish of Caithness in the County of Roxburgh

This record indicates that she was born about 1823-4 to James Falconer (a shoemaker) and Janet, his wife, whose surname was not recorded. She died of consumption in Denholm, Roxburghshire. The registrar was George Moodie (a relative of James?). The record also confirms that James Moodie was a millwright.

One final note – in looking for a birth record, I found the following intriguing one. The date is believable, and the names are reasonable. The location is quite far north, however.

Every thing makes sense about this except that Janet Moodie appears as a child of age 15. The key thing is that her birth precedes the marriage of Margaret and James in 1851. She could have been born “illegitimately” in 1846. However, another possibility is that she is the adopted daughter of a relative.

I have found a possible birth to William Moodie and Jane Lidell/Liddle that might fit. Perhaps this William Moodie is the William that appears in Thomas’ house in 1841. It is also possible that Janet was actually born into a Falconer family.

All this is speculation, however, and warrants more research.

Teviothead is a real place, so I am inclined to accept this location, which is very close to Hawick in Roxburghshire. In fact the address given here for his residence is on the SW side of Hawick, north of the Teviot River.

I believe that William was actually Margaret's son. There are two reasons why I believe this. First, his birth date is a few months prior to the death of Margaret. Secondly, the amount of matching DNA shown for his descendants and my mother at ancestry.com is consistent with him being a half sibling to Agnes and Elizabeth, who are clearly daughters of Jemima.

It seems certain that the only mother figure that William could have remembered was Jemima. It should not be surprising that later in life he reported here are his mother rather than Margaret.

One unanswered question then centers on why the Moodie/Falconer family moved from the Edinburgh area to the Hawick area. It appears that sometime after the 1861 census the family must have moved.

The death of Margaret in the latter part of 1862 in Denholm does fit with this move.

It is not clear what drew the family back towards the Moodie relatives in Roxburghshire, and we may never know the reason.

The Life of James Moodie

Marriage on 12/7/1866 at Wilton, Roxburghshire to Jemima Nicol

In the winter of 1861-62 the James Moodie family is with out a mother and living in the Hawick area of Roxburghshire. Ages of the household members would be roughly as follows.

- James: 45
- Janet: 16
- James: 7
- William: infant < 1

So that probably leaves James with three children to support alone. Probably he would have sought help in the form of a female “servant” so that he could earn a living. Jemima Nicol could have been that person. And that bring us back to the marriage record of James to Jemima Nicol that was mentioned at the beginning of this document. -

1871 Scottish Census – Wilton, Roxburghshire

Now the James Moodie household is shown in the census entry at right.

Jemima is present, but Janet and James are not. Presumably they are housed elsewhere. This is another bit of research that could be done to confirm this speculation.

We do see that William is still present, and that there is a new child – Elizabeth.

Jemima Nicol b. 1836

So, who was Jemima? Fortunately there is more information in this regard.

I believe that Jemima was born 4/7/1836 to James Nicol (b. 1790) and Elizabeth Cavers (b. 1794 d. 1881). She was the last (11th!) child in a very large family. The family appears to have been from the Robertson, Selkirk area. I believe that this is a village just to the west of Hawick. (Selkirk is to the north of Hawick.) Here is a listing showing her family.

Summary of Children of Jemima Nicol and James Moodie

1881 Census at Southdean, Roxburghshire

James and Jemima had just two children (Elizabeth and Agnes) as far as I can tell. They appear in the 1881 census without James, who has by that time died.

William appears as well and has been discussed previously.

Immigration of Moodie Family Members to the USA in 1882

From what I can tell, the remains of the James Moodie family of Roxburghshire (his second family) left Scotland for the USA in 1882. I believe that William made the trip first and was then followed by Elizabeth, Agnes, and probably Jemima. (I can find no death record in Scotland for Jemima.)

Here is transport information for the three ladies. Note that the person most likely to be Jemima is recorded as Agnes, age 42. My guess is that this is really Jemima.

Immigration of Another Descendant of James Moodie to the USA

Recent DNA testing has helped reveal that there is another line of James Moodie descendants in the USA. I have had the pleasure of communicating with contemporary descendants from this line.

As mentioned above, our James Moodie (b.1817) had a son named James (b.1855) with his first wife Margaret in the vicinity of Edinburgh.

This son married a lady named Mary Pierson/Pearson (b. ~1857) according to trees on ancestry.com. They in turn had a son named Joseph (b. 1884 in Hawick). [Note the same location and and time frame as the second family of James b.1817!]

Joseph immigrated to the USA on 3/24/1904 on the ship named the Majestic with a number of other folks from the Roxburghshire area. (This is nearly 20 years after William, Agnes, and Elizabeth – his uncle and aunts made the trip.) Joseph made his way to Idaho.

22	Moydie	Joseph P.	19	Feb	"	"	Huntington
23	S. Gordon	Chas J	13	Feb	Boackman	England	St Aust

I wonder if Joseph and Agnes ever knew of the presence of the other in the USA? James Moodie (b.1817) certainly never imagined that, nearly two hundred years after his death, a DNA technology would make it possible for his descendants to discover each other!

This could be subtitled “Will the Real Thomas Moodie Please Stand Up!”

Thomas Moodie b. 1790 in Lilliesleaf

Here is a record of the family into which Thomas was born in 1790. This is from an old Parish register in Lilliesleaf. I feel pretty sure that this is the family of “our” Thomas. The timing and location seem right.

It shows that Thomas’ father was James Moodie and that there were three siblings: Robert b.1789, Thomas b. 1790, and James b.1800. (Oh, how I wish that there was more variety in given names!)

The most likely supporting marriage record is the one that follows showing a marriage between James Moodie and Jean Richardson in Ancrum, Roxburghshire. (This is the town where James died of “brain softening.”)

So, assuming that this is the right marriage, we know who the parents of Thomas and his brothers, Robert and James. And, in support of this, I have found a distant DNA match on ancestry.com who traces his line back to the next generation back from James and Jean. The DNA match is associated with Nelson Moodie, Jr., and we share just 10 cM of DNA, which is reasonable given the distance back to a common ancestor.

Jean may be the daughter of Thomas Richardson. -

Next, a little research at familysearch.org has turned up a series of linked families that seems to be reasonable. This series is authored by one Edgar Moodie and others, but I have not contacted them for verifying source information. For now, I just reference their work with the link that follows.

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/pedigree/landscape/LL46-3B8>

Assuming that this series of families is linked properly, James' parents were Robert Moodie (b.1726) and Maren Walker (b.1732). His siblings were Andrew, John, Robert, and Margaret. And accepting all the information yields the following pedigree information.

The Life of James Moodie

Melsetter Estate and Another Thomas Moodie

As a part of my foray into understanding Thomas Moodie, James' father, I have turned up some colorful history that you might want to investigate in more detail. I will just outline it here until I (or someone else) can confirm it. I am not at all convinced that the families described below are related to my/our Moodie families. Connections to our Moodie line are not proven!

First, it appears that there was a Thomas Moodie of about the right age as our Thomas that may have been in the military, and may have died in India. This Thomas was perhaps a member of a large family headed by a Major James Moodie, whose likenesses are presented below. (See <https://www.ancestry.com/family-tree/person/tree/78644683/person/410097253721/gallery> .) If so, this Thomas' mother was named Elizabeth Dunbar, and she and Major James were married in Caithness (also mentioned above in the context of Margaret Falconer). Again, I do NOT think that this is "our" Thomas since the information does not sync with the family information of James Moodie as recorded in the Parish Register in Lilliesleaf and shown in the section immediately above. The simplest explanation is that the ancestry.com tree is wrong and that there were multiple James/Thomas Moodie people in Scotland at the same time. (Not so far fetched.)

This "ancestry" Major James Moodie is identified as the Ninth Laird of Melsetter House, an historic place in the Orkneys. Here he is in uniform.

Here he is later in life.

The Life of James Moodie

And the same ancestry.com reference provides the following text.

“the Ninth Laird

In 1769 Major James Moodie became ninth Laird of Melsetter and inherited Breckness, Snelsetter Castle and Melsetter. He married Elizabeth Dunbar and had 6 children (Henrietta, Janet, Thomas, Benjamin, Donald and John; and there is mention of another son, James, who was possibly illegitimate, born to an Elizabeth Taylor). The Moodies were an ancient family and could claim to be able to trace their descent directly from Robert the Bruce. The first written record of the family seems to date from about 1470, when William Mudie appears in a list of Scottish bishops as Bishop of Caithness. The non-conjectural pedigree of the Moodies (or Mudie, as it was in the fifteenth century) starts with another William, the first Laird of Melsetter, who was a man of some importance, being, among other things, Chamberlain in Orkney to Mary Queen of Scots. His lands were listed and confirmed by King James VI in 1591. At that time he disposed of his properties on the mainland of Scotland to consolidate his position in Orkney.

In 1818, Major James Moodie was forced to sell the estate which had been in his family for more than 500 years, despite his strenuous efforts to save it. James Moodie died heartbroken and is buried in the Canongate Parish Churchyard in Edinburgh. The breaking up of the Melsetter estate gave rise to an acrimonious and extended legal battle involving, among others, Lord Dundas, and was never settled to the satisfaction of the Moodies. Although the connection between the Moodies and Melsetter in Orkney was irrevocably severed by the sale of the estate in 1818, another Melsetter connection was created years later in another continent. Just before the sale of the estate, the son Benjamin and others had emigrated to Africa and within a few years the Moodies had become one of those pioneering families whose story is interwoven with the history of Southern Africa in the nineteenth century. One of the family, Thomas, led a trek to Gazaland, in what was then Rhodesia, and founded the town of Melsetter at an altitude of 1586 m in the Chimanimani Mountains.”

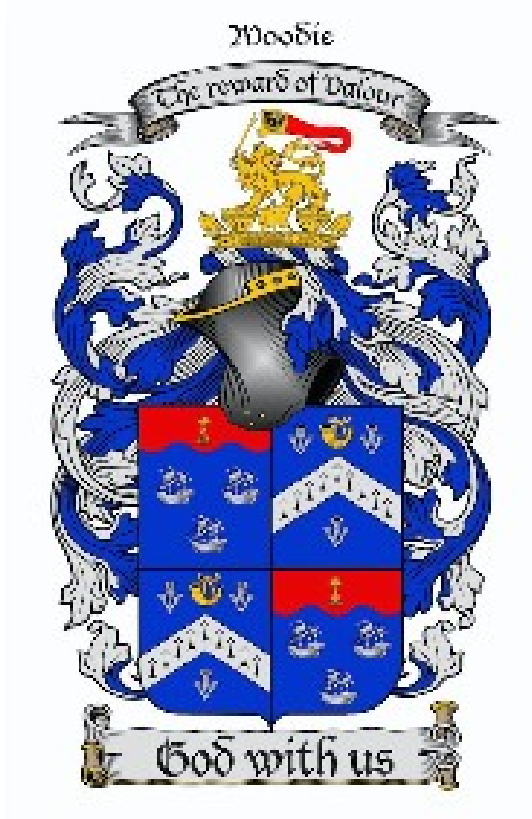

I think that many folks have researched this line, so I’m sure that if you have an interest you can reach out and find more. For example . . . <https://themoodies.co.za/home> . BTW, the guy in the picture at right (from this web site) is not me, but we could be brothers. The shirt says “I can’t keep calm I’m a Moodie.” What can I say!

The Life of James Moodie

According to this site, the Ninth Laird came up with this coat of arms. Meaningless symbolism today, but the only such thing that I have found while doing my genealogy.

Maybe someday we will determine if we are related to the Melsetter Moodies somewhere back in time.

Southern Wisconsin Roots in Maps and Pictures

In August, 2018, I had occasion to visit parts of southern WI where Agnes (Moodie) and Charles Bates resided in the latter half of the 19th century. The purpose of this note is to summarize in maps and pictures the places of importance to Charles and Agnes (and some of their ancestors and descendants).

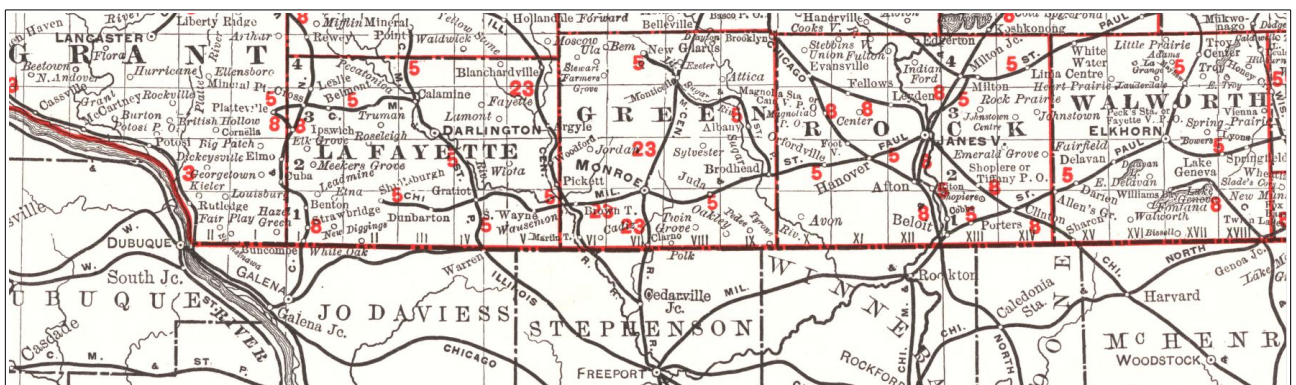

Map images are drawn from the 1896 map made available by the U. of Alabama.

It is a railroad map and the red numbers indicate the organizations that operated the various railroads.

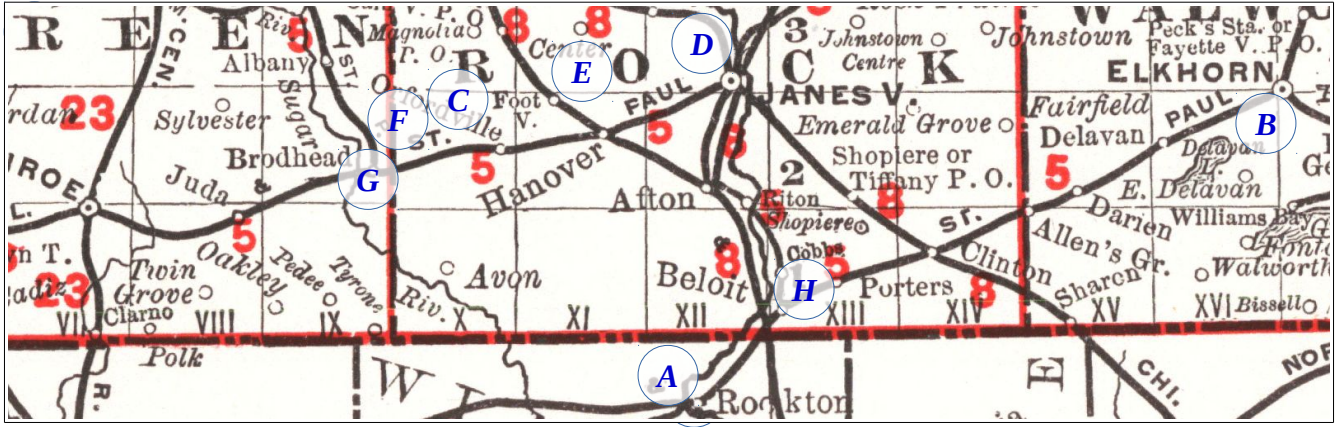

Following is an extract of much of the southern tier of WI counties. This is where most of the “action” took place. Key places are Elkhorn, Janesville, Brodhead, Beloit, Rockton (IL), Jamestown, etc. in Walworth, Rock, Green, and Grant counties.

Here is another excerpt from the map, zoomed in to include just the locales around Janesville. Locations of specific events are noted and described in the text that follows the map.

- A) The Henry N. Bates farm was near Rockton, IL. This is where Charles' mother, Satina, lived and met and married Jerome Tupper. (Satina was born in PA, and Jerome was born in NY.)
- B) At some point after their marriage in 1849, Satina and Jerome moved to Elkhorn, where Charles was born. (This move must have taken place prior to 1852, since their second child was born in WI.) Charles' birth name was Clarence J. Tupper, and he was born in 1858, the 4th child in the family.
- C) Members of the Moodie family started immigrating from Scotland to Spring Valley, just outside of Brodhead, in the early 1880s. Agnes and her sister arrived in late 1882, and lived with their brother, William, who was the first to immigrate.
- D) Clarence (Charles) and Agnes were married in Rock County in September, 1886. They lived in the same area as Agnes' brother and had the following children: Harry (b.1887), May (b.1888), Frank (b.1891), John (b.1893), Elizabeth (b.1895), Susan (1898), Grace (b.1901).
- E) Harry, my grandfather, was employed at a creamery, probably located near Footville. (It was there or in the general vicinity that he lost his right arm in an accident.)
- F) Charles died in 1900 and is buried in the Scotch Hill cemetery, just outside of Brodhead. Shortly after his death, his last child was born. Her name was Grace, and she was adopted by a local family, but she did not survive many years. She is also buried in the Scotch Hill cemetery, but her marker has been destroyed.
- G) Agnes moved into Brodhead after Charles' death. Their son John died in 1908. (I have never found his grave.) At about this time, the remaining family members (except for May) moved to South Dakota.
- H) May remained in the Beloit area and married Olaf Lund. May is in fact buried in Beloit, and the remains of her sister, Libbie (Bates) Owens, are buried there as well. (Agnes' brother, William, also moved to Beloit and is buried there.)

Some pictures that illustrate various of the places named above follow.

Harry Bates was employed at the Roach Seeber Creamery. There were multiple locations for this company, but I suspect that the Footville location is where Harry worked. Here is a picture of the creamery around 1900. Harry is standing next to a wagon in the lower right side of the picture.

Here are a couple of pictures from the Scotch Hill Cemetery (near Brodhead) that show the marker for Charles' grave.

Here are some pictures to illustrate what Brodhead, WI, was like in the early 20th century, when the Bates family lived there.

Charles' birth family (Jerome and Satina (Bates) Tupper) moved to SW Wisconsin some time between 1860 and 1870. Jerome served in the Union Army during part of this time. (WI 4th Cavalry)

It is not clear what caused Charles/Clarence to be in the vicinity of Brodhead when Agnes and her family arrived. However, it may be that the Tupper family "dissolved" around 1880 due to the poor health of Jerome, who later spent time in a VA hospital. Satina also shows up with a daughter in IA in 1885. This is all speculation, however, until some sense can be made of the census information that exists for the 1880s.

The Tupper farm in 1870 was near Jamestown, WI, which is in the southern part of Grant County, near Big Patch as far as I can tell. From there, Charles' sisters married and relocated across Iowa.

His sisters' married names were Mary Burns, Ellen Ward, Clara Cole, and Ada Williams.

Jerome died in Grant Co. in 1899, but I have never located his grave.

Satina died in 1900 in SD, where she was living with her daughter, Ada, near Sioux Falls. I have recently located her grave in the Bethel Cemetery in Minnehaha Co., SD.
